Univ. Ryukyus & Kyoto Univ. joint Design School 2017

Dates: November 23(Thu), 25(Sat), 26(Sun), 2017
Venue: 1st floor on Integrated Innovation Center for Community (IICC)

Overview

This design school is an educational event that experiences "design in a broad sense" such as design of a social system. The purpose of this school is to cultivate the ability to find and solve problems by providing a place that can collaborate with other fields for social issues, and to gain awareness of the necessary abilities for that purpose.

The actual design subject of this time is the real problem in Okinawa, that is "Countermeasures for child's poverty". In tackling this problem, we prepared three keynotes as a summary of this problem, field work as a onsite voice, and a group that collects students of different generations, regions, and specialized fields. There is no particular constraint on the narrowing down of the design target and the presentation format/style on the final day. We hope to work with free-thinking.
